San Francisco, Cal., September 1, 1912.

To All Labor Organizations, Trade Unionists and Friends who so Generously Contributed During the General Strike which Resulted in Permanently Establishing Unionism in Los Angeles:

Greeting—

The conditions under which the men and women workers of Los Angeles were compelled to toil a few years ago were a constant menace to the Organized Workers of California, and repeated efforts were made to urge the workers of that city to a titanic struggle that would break the strangle-hold of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association upon the industries of that industrially unprogressive town.

Little warning was given San Francisco of the nearness of the struggle to come; but when, on May 19, 1910, the Brewery Workers were locked out in all Los Angeles breweries, and when on June 1, 1910, the Los Angeles Metal Trades Council threw down the gauge of battle to the iniquitous Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, we knew the great industrial war of our time was on, to be fought to the bitter finish, and that the time had at last arrived when the question as to whether the rights of men and women amounted to anything as against the influence of money was up for settlement, once and for all.

The Brewery Workers found themselves in a splendid position; their national organization was able to, and did, finance the local unions without outside assistance; with that was coupled confidence in the outcome, based upon the knowledge that their national union had never lost a fight; in addition to this, the sister unions of Los Angeles responded splendidly to the call for moral assistance.

A few weeks, and the Metal Trades Unions joined hands with the Brewery Workers, and the Otises and Zeehandelaars found their long-time bombast and bluff called for a final showdown.

Soon the call for aid reached willing and waiting ears in San Francisco, and the following tables will tell the story of how it was answered, and how the largest fund ever raised in the United States in the way of financial response was collected and disbursed, without the criticisms and misunderstanding which sometimes accompany the collection and expending of such large sums.

As soon as the enemy became convinced of the earnestness of the struggle of Labor, their chimerical "impregnable defense" tumbled like the house of cards it was, and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association threw itself upon the political powers and begged the City Council of Los Angeles for relief, in a desperate effort, to stem the victorious advance of awakened Labor.

This pliant and controlled Council immediately responded by the enactment of the now notorious "Anti-Picketing" Ordinance, a measure designed to take away our constitutional rights and guarantees; it looked as if the death knell of Labor had been sounded, but they again failed to note that this was no ordinary strike, and the unionists responded by hundreds in protest and displayed a willingness to suffer any indignity of misapplied authority, and to be jailed if needs be, to evidence their continued fealty to the great principle of our time.

The Brewery Workers were industriously and effectively picketing "unfair saloons" at the time this ordinance was passed, and with arrest and a jail sentence staring each picket in the face the moment he stood in front of a saloon and advised sympathizers that it was selling the non-union product, the boycotting proceeded; as a result patrol wagons were backed up to the sidewalk and pickets arrested by the dozen; as soon as one unionist would be arrested, another took his place; the police would stop long enough to permit the patrol wagon to go to the jail with its load and would await its return before making more arrests, when it would again be filled. The jails soon became crowded and the Police Court calendars congested and clogged; and with seeming pleasure the judges would grind out sentences to those "convicted" of the "crime" of speaking to their fellow-man and advising him of the unfairness of a place. Unionists lay in jail for weeks and months awaiting trial; the scheme of the enemy to cripple our finances by payment of fines, and bail, was thwarted by the refusal of the arrested pickets to permit us to bail them out or pay their fines, and among the heroes of this battle for principle were the men and women who gladly went to jail and remained there, that others might receive succor.

In the meantime the men of the Iron Trades (whose pickets also were suffering the same treatment) had completely tied up the metal industry of Los Angeles and vicinity.

Organized labor of California put an embargo on all Los Angeles beer and metal trades products, with the result that sympathetic strikes occurred in Bakersfield, San Pedro, and in the oil fields in Taft, Fellows, Coalinga, San Luis Obispo and other places.

The history of the fight from there on, is known, and much the same as in other great struggles for human liberty; not a week passed (from the time a committee of trade unionists met in the offices of the State Building Trades Council of California and issued a statement of the need of assisting), when the weekly payroll of the unionists on strike, ranging from 2,000 to 6,000, was not met. The Building Trades Council and San Francisco Labor Council, as well as the Central Labor Council of Oakland, levied an assessment of 25 cents per week on each member and it was, in the main, cheerfully paid.

Each man on strike received seven dollars a week for more than eighteen months, and the greatest caution was used to secure a correct disbursement. Careful study of the amounts contributed is recommended; this account mutely tells the tale of the unions which did not falter, and of those which were weighed and found wanting—it is only fair to say that in the case of some of the smaller donations good reason was forthcoming—in the case of the Brewery Workers, their membership was assessed one dollar a week to assist their own locals; but when victory had crowned their efforts, the Brewery Workers collected and paid to this Committee the same amount. In the files of the General Committee can be found the names of the unions that either refused or failed to respond without good reason therefor.

And when, with braggadocio, any representative of those organizations rises to paint a word picture of achievements for the cause, this record will be found of value, and may save all of us much talk.

As for the results of our efforts, what more significant proof could be forthcoming than:

First—That the struggle is won.

Second—That the power of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association is shattered and it today is engaged in a futile appeal to rebuild its empty treasury.

Third—The membership of the Los Angeles Unions has increased by over 10,000.

Fourth—The power of Otis has faded, and the circulation of his daily organ of filth, the Times, has been hammered to where he dare not publish the figures.

Fifth—Twenty-two new unions have been organized in Los Angeles.

Sixth—Organized labor has found its power and strength, as evidenced by the tremendous vote given Job Harriman for Mayor of that city in the campaign of 1911.

Seventh—Big business keeps reiterating the "hope that organized labor will be fair with capital." etc.

This statement would not be complete without one or two individual references; we have studiously refrained from mentioning names in this matter, yet the great assistances of the two Councils of Labor in San Francisco cannot be passed.

To the leaders of these two great bodies initiating this plan of assistance, and to the delegates therein, who with the very necessary assistance of the several departmental Councils acting in enthusiastic co-operation of their members, is unquestionably due the success of the fight, at least so far as financial aid made that possible. The sacrifices made by Councils throughout the State are appreciated beyond expression—the record tells its own tale of loyalty; reference to it will produce forceful evidence of the extent to which they can in future be relied upon in a crisis.

To the Socialist Party in Los Angeles the grateful thanks of organized labor is due—unlike some we have known, they attempted no obstruction; on the contrary, all moral aid that could be granted was given with enthusiasm that warmed our hearts, and so far as this struggle is concerned, the efforts of the Socialists of Los Angeles will be forever to their glory.

To Attorney Job Harriman a word of praise is due. When hardly any legal talent could be had even for money, he threw himself into this fight, without regard as to consequences or fee, and when money came in disappointingly slow, his "never mind; I'll work for the good of the cause, and the satisfaction that it will bring me, will be my fee" should be remembered by union men of this nation; no hour, or day, or week, but what his services were ours for the asking; in the new movement in Los Angeles, Job Harriman played a most important and heroic part.

To John I. Nolan, who left San Francisco one memorable day to give the "go to the bat" word to the Metal Trades Council of Los Angeles, can be given credit for leadership in a dark hour which brought into the hearts of the men and women of Los Angeles the light of a happier day and a new hope; a hope that, coupled with determination to do, cannot die.

To Thomas and Peter McDonough, who, when the payroll was short and but for whose general loans, without question as to security (except as to whether or no it was for Labor), many times those on strike must have gone without their allowance, we are obligated and grateful; to others who took only our words for repayment of loans amounting to in some instances seven to ten thousand dollars, and who only asked in return to not name them, we herewith express our thanks and appreciation.

To Teamsters' Union No. 85, which stood ready to advance $15,000 on ten hours' notice, and for many advances made, on our simple hope that organized labor would make good, we herewith acknowledge our deep appreciation. To the san Francisco attorneys who sacrificed business and comfort to go to Los Angeles, to make necessary legal battle which was then being made by Fred H. Spring and Job Harriman, and when no more legal talent could be had for love or money in Los Angeles, we are thankful indeed. To the Los Angeles Record we owe a debt of gratitude we cannot repay—the sacrifice made by that paper in the interest of Labor, and the loss it temporarily sustained is known: it also can take to itself, in full confidence of deserving it, a great share of the glory of an awakened union spirit, and we feel that its valued aid can hardly be appreciated or repaid; we owe it an everlasting debt of loyalty and gratitude. The Citizen, the official organ of the Central Labor Council of Los Angeles, cannot be left out; indeed, words cannot express the tremendous influence that paper had in Labor's victory, not omitting the yoeman service of the labor press of California.

There is, through it all, matter for much reflection on the part of trade unionists. There is room for much profitable study by those who in the future may be called upon to take part in similar struggles in the interests of the toilers of our land, as this great battle of the unions against intrenched power brought forcefully to the attention of the workers the possibilities of achievement through united, persistent action, even when opposed by sneaking scorpions of the Otis type.

This story could scarcely be written without bringing into it the name of the "gray rat of Los Angeles," H. G. Otis, for his grasping greed, his bitter hatred of all that is good, noble and true, his satanic spirit of viciousness toward all who do not agree with him. His whining and his yelping are always in evidence in such contests. He is a creature trained to walk upright as man, yet absolutely devoid of any of those things which go to make one measure up to the standard of man. He has no conscience, no sensibility, no honor, no decency, no manhood. In short, he is simply an undeveloped Darwinian ape, and would be in his proper element swinging by his tail from a limb of a tree in the jungles of far-away Africa. He is of a specie upon which civilization has not and cannot have any influence, and it would be expecting too much of a patient and generous Providence to hope for any improvement in him; but this strike relieved him of his poisonous fangs and left him harmless in his senility, unable to further ply his trade of spreading hatred and misery and want among the people of the southern city, who have been so blessed by Nature and so cursed by the presence of Harrison Gray Otis.

The effort, fellow unionists, was indeed worth while, for a pestilence has been removed, and the Star of Hope shines with undimmed luster on the southern horizon, as if to say: "Be of good cheer; your enemy has been vanquished, your cause justified, and your army victorious."

NOTE

In the accounts that follow, under separate heads, are the financial statements of the contributing organizations, viz:

Account of General Secretary-Treasurer Gallagher of amounts handled by him for transmission to Los Angeles and amounts expended by direction and approval of the General Committee.

The report of the Building Trades Council is submitted as forwarded by O. A. Tveitmoe, General Secretary-Treasurer of that body.

The report of George Gunrey (who was assistant Secretary-Treasurer, as well as Strike Manager and disbursing agent at Los Angeles) is also submitted, as forwarded by Brother Gunrey.

In this connection it may be noted that this account was delayed because of refusal of Federal authorities at Los Angeles to return to Brother Gunrey his original accounts as contained in his books, which were taken from him by order of court, and which the Federal agents at Los Angeles still insist on holding from him, notwithstanding the fact that their (the Federal agents') examination of the books was completed some time ago.

ANDREW J. GALLAGHER,
Secretary-Treasurer.
